The Daniel Pearl World Music Days is a global network of musical events held throughout the month of October -- the month of Daniel's birth -- to promote tolerance and understanding through the universal language of music.

Since 2002, more than 4,900 musical performances in 103 countries have been dedicated to and inspired by the legacy of journalist/musician Daniel Pearl, the Wall Street Journal South Asia Bureau Chief, who was kidnapped and murdered in Pakistan shortly after September 11, 2001. Daniel was a talented musician who joined musical groups in every community he visited. He firmly believed in the power of music to unite people. This concert will commemorate his life and work through the power of music to spread a message of hope, and to unite people against the culture of violence.

Born in Margilan, Uzbekistan to a family of textile workers, Yulduz Usmanova performs music colored with Uzbek traditional music. She mixes folk music with modern pop, creating something new, fresh and exclusive. Yulduz sings primarily in Uzbek, but has sung in Kazakh, Tatar, Chinese, Uyghur and Turkish languages. She has recorded over a thousand songs, for both national and international albums, worked on artistic collaborations, and continues to delight the world with her voice.
